DEVELOPING LEARNERS' WRITING SKILLS IN ENGLISH

Have you ever wanted to know how to:

- stop your teenage students from seeing writing as being a boring task?
- encourage them to write collaboratively?
- provide students with opportunities to write English outside the classroom?
- get them to write more English in class?
- prepare students in the classroom for an internationally recognized examination?

If you have answered 'yes' to any of these questions..., then it's time to Discover Trinity!

Summary

This workshop is designed to support successful writing activities in the language classroom and how teachers can measure their students development in real world communication skills.

During the workshop participants will be invited to engage with materials and techniques to increase the level of real written communication in the classroom and help teachers to positively assess what students can do.

Speaker

Manuela Kelly Calzini (Academic Team Italy - Trinity College London)

Il workshop è a numero chiuso. La partecipazione è gratuita.
